ONE WORLD FESTIVAL 2022

In 2022 One World Festival is delighted to be able to offer in-person events, alongside hybrid and virtual events. Building on our experiences over the last years we feel it is a great opportunity to use all three event types to allow as many people as possible to participate.

One World Festival is a fantastic opportunity for your organisation to run an event, promoting understanding of issues that affect the lives of the poorest people and inspiring action in our communities towards a just, peaceful and sustainable world.

CALL FOR EVENTS

We welcome any new and innovative ideas for events that promote understanding about global issues. Events can now be in person, hybrid or online. We would encourage event organisers to consider creative and arts-focused events this year, to really connect with the audience that participates. It will be your responsibility to organise and run your event, but the team at One World Festival is here to help. We will be in touch to confirm the event, and work out the details, if the event is selected by our committee. Event Proposal forms must be submitted by Friday 5th August, by email to festival@cada-ni.org.

Please note: the number of events will be limited in 2022 and regrettably we will only be able to accept considered events which are in keeping with our aims and vision for the Festival.

Last year's festival included:

- Talks/discussions
- Workshops
- Exhibitions
- Film
- Comedy
- Music
- Storytelling

VISION, MISSION & AIMS

Vision

Together for a just, peaceful and sustainable world.

Mission

To increase awareness about the Global South, promote understanding of issues that affect the lives of the poorest people and inspire action in our communities towards a just, peaceful and sustainable world.

Aims

- increase understanding of the global context of international development
- increase awareness of the richness of our interconnected world
- inspire action on global issues of poverty, justice, rights and equality
- build solidarity as part of one interdependent, human family

The festival aims to programme high quality events that:

- promote inclusivity and diversity – ensuring diversity of individual voice
- value the participation of all citizens – especially those from under-represented groups
- embed the sustainable development goals within festival events
- strive to be innovative and creative
- are affordable and accessible
- encourage partnership and collaboration between like-minded organisations

WHAT YOU NEED TO DO

FESTIVAL

Event Criteria

Events will need to take place from 10th - 14th October 2022. They must be open to the public, affordable and accessible. Organisations do not need to be a member of CADA NI to be included in the festival, but all events must meet the event criteria.

Event Organisation

You need to take responsibility for organising and hosting the event ensuring all relevant insurances, licences and health & safety requirements are met, if applicable.

Event Promotion

You need to promote the event and invite audiences, manage event numbers and complete an evaluation.

SELECTION CRITERIA

The Selection Committee will use the criteria below to determine the events to include in the official festival programme.

1. One World Festival events must be in keeping with the vision, mission and aims of the festival. Events should aim to increase awareness of the Global South, promote understanding of issues that affect the lives of the poorest people and inspire action in our communities towards a just, peaceful and sustainable world.
2. Events should aim to give a voice to people in or from the Global South, challenge negative stereotypes, and actively promote gender equality in terms of representation on panels, line-ups and messaging.
3. Preference will be given to events run by more than one organisation, as we value collaboration and partnership between organisers.
4. Organisers must confirm they have sufficient public liability insurance for the event and should carry out a full risk assessment, if applicable. CADA will not be held responsible for any accident, loss or injury arising from an event.
5. Events must not promote a political party organisation or other public campaign, which the festival committee has not approved.
6. Organisers may use their own branding at events but One World Festival branding and promotional materials must be given equal publicity at events.
7. Fundraising events where a premium ticket price is charged, or high value donations solicited (e.g. a Gala Dinner), or participants have to raise sponsorship to take part in an event, will not be included in the festival except by prior agreement of the festival committee. However, for events where a performer or speaker donates their time and standard ticket prices are charged (where appropriate), any net contribution raised may be retained by the organisation running the event.

submit an event idea!

If you are interested in running an event please fill in our submission form, available at oneworldfestivalni.com, and send it to festival@cada-ni.org. If you have any questions please get in touch by emailing festival@cada-ni.org.
